Hands on History Series Continues at Knife River Indian Villages

Stanton, ND: The Hands on History Series continues on Saturday, July 12, 2014, at Knife River Indian Villages National Historic Site. The Saturdays in July allow the public to try their hand at various skills that were part of the Hidatsa Mandan culture.

Continuing the series will be Native American beadwork from 1:00-3:00 p.m. CDT. Pearl Schneider will demonstrate the various styles of beading. Visitors will be able to make a beaded key chain to take with them. The supplies will be furnished.

The last activity in the series will be pottery on July 19. This activity will be free and the supplies will be furnished.

While not a part of the Hands on History Series, "Music for the Villages" will be held on Saturday, July 26, 2014.

Come out to the park on Saturday to participate in the beadwork activity. For more information, please contact the park at 701-745-3300.
